Uneasiness Settles Over Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Uneasiness settled over Little Rock Tuesday night on the eve of the reopening of its four public high schools to token integration.

Diehard segregationists still sought desperately for a way out. They had even declared a boycott of Main Street merchants.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus finally spoke up, too.

"If the Little Rock situation is settled and if the schools are integrated, it will be under the compulsion of federal bayonets," he said.

Strangely Quiet

Faubus had been strangely quiet. He had been expected to call a special legislative session, but didn't. But segregationists still rallied around him. They planned to gather on the Capitol lawn Wednesday to ask him to "do something."

Speaking before a farmers union meeting, Faubus gave no hint of any action he might take to halt desegregation of the schools. The School Board buttoned down the details for integrating six Negroes into two of the schools under a state pupil placement law, already challenged by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Twice Faubus has stopped integration in Little Rock. In the fall of 1957 he used the National Guard temporarily to turn back nine Negroes at Central High School. Last year he closed the schools under a quickly enacted state law recently declared unconstitutional by a federal court.

The governor implied federal force was behind the integration and referred to reports of troop movements in the Pine Bluff area, 60 miles southeast of Little Rock. At Pine Bluff, Col. R. W. Dods, commanding officer of the Pine Bluff Arsenal, said 110 Army Reservists are holding a two-week training course there but it had no connection with the Little Rock situation.

Keeping Order

Police Chief Gene Smith has been charged with the job of keeping order around the schools. He is not new to the task. He was at Central High School in 1957 when mob violence flared there after Faubus was forced by a federal court to remove his Guardsmen. Chief Smith refused to say whether he had heard any rumors of possible trouble at the schools but Everett Tucker Jr., president of the School Board, said he expected the integration to come peacefully.

The people (of Little Rock) Tucker said, "are not particularly happy with the circumstances of the reopening but they are concerned over the reputation Little Rock may have achieved in the last two years."

The schools, opening nearly a month earlier than originally planned, will have classes only a half-day until September. Hall High in fashionable Pulaski Heights will be the first to integrate. Three Negro girls are to report there for classes at 9:30 a.m.

House Units Okay New Fees

HARRISBURG (AP)—House committees Tuesday approved increases in the annual operators' license fee and the state gasoline tax to help finance the proposed 975 million dollar highway budget.

A penny increase in the gasoline tax, to 6 cents a gallon, was reported out by the Ways and Means Committee. It is designed to provide 63 million dollars for the two-year fiscal period.

The Motor Vehicles Committee sent to the floor for further action a plan to raise 22 million dollars in the 1959-61 biennium by boosting the operators' license fee from $1 to $3 a year.

Both items face trouble, either in the House or Senate.

Senate Republicans are against the gasoline tax increase and they feel the tax is dead for this session, according to a statement last week by Senate GOP Leader James Berger.

However, Highways Secretary Park H. Martin predicted the tax measure would clear the Senate if it got by the Democratic-controlled House. He did not explain his thinking.

Various plans for the renewal date of operators' licenses may prompt a floor fight in the House. It has been suggested licenses be renewed in alphabetical order or on the driver's birthday anniversary.

1,200 Men Fight Blaze Raging In California Woods

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More than 1,200 men fought Tuesday night to check a dozen forest fires blazing over 10,000 acres of Northern California. In most areas the temperature was 100 or more.

Two other major blazes were controlled after blackening 2,600 acres of brush and timber.

In Southern California the Decker Canyon fire that killed two men and burned 27 was officially declared under control. It charred 1,600 acres near Lake Elsinore and left six men in hospitals with serious burns.

San Francisco

A hundred miles north of San Francisco a blaze that burst out from the edges of Ukiah and for a time threatened the town was tamed. One house was destroyed. A thousand acres of brush and timber west of Ukiah were charred.

To the northeast of Ukiah two other fires, one believed set by deer hunters, raged out of control. One had covered 1,800 acres by mid-afternoon and another three miles away burned over 700 acres. Twenty miles to the north at Willits two fires covered roughly 1,000 acres before they were checked.

House Wades Into Labor Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House waded into a bare-knuckle fight Tuesday over labor control legislation with the issue very much in doubt.

Immediately, a bloc of Republicans and southern Democrats went on the offensive for a bill supported by President Eisenhower.

Northern Democrats counterattacked in behalf of a rival bill backed by the AFL-CIO and other segments of organized labor.

A third force—led by Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex)—appealed for an end to emotion and for passage of a bill fashioned by the House Labor Committee, a bill described as a middle-of-the-road compromise.

The air crackled with tension.

Cause Of Crowley's Death Set

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Joseph Crowley's death was ruled Tuesday the result of the combination of an overdose of sedatives and alcohol. The coroner said death was accidental.

Coroner James J. Corigan said the former Yale football star died sometime Sunday night of barbiturate poisoning.

He said the amount of sedatives Crowley took "would not have killed him had he not been drinking at the same time."

Crowley was found dead in his suburban Hamden home Monday—one day after his 50th birthday and seven weeks after he had been cleared of killing his brother-in-law.

Capsules

Corigan said a toxicological report showed Crowley had taken approximately seven barbiturate capsules, each of 1½ grains. He said the report also found evidence Crowley had taken eight to 10 drinks of an alcoholic beverage at the time.

The prosecution charged that Crowley killed Jones in a drunken brawl in their hotel room in Tokyo, where they were on a business visit. The defense said Jones apparently was killed by injuries suffered as he fell in the room.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An attempt to launch the satellite rocket Discoverer V was postponed Tuesday for the fourth time. Fog was blamed. Previous delays were due to unfavorable weather and technical troubles.

Employment Sets Record In July

WASHINGTON (AP)—More Americans had jobs in July than in any previous month. There were 67,594,000 employed.

The government's monthly job survey showed 252,000 more employed than in June, which also was a record. There are 2,415,000 more jobs than a year ago.

Unemployment declined by 238,000 from June to 3,744,000 in July. This is a decline of 1,500,000 from July 1958.

Seymour Wolfstein, deputy assistant secretary of labor for manpower, said in releasing the new data Tuesday that they showed a further and continuing improvement in the overall employment picture.

The seasonally adjusted ratio of workers idle, but seeking jobs, to the rest of the work force rose in July to 5.1 per cent from 4.9 in June. The long-term unemployed—those idle 15 weeks or longer—dropped by 110,000 in July to 820,000. This is less than half the figure a year ago.

One sidelight to the new report is that unemployment among Negro workers is 11 per cent, or more than double the 4.5 idle rate among white workers.

The July employment increase came despite a more than seasonal decline in farm employment attributed to bad crop weather in many areas — primarily in the South.

Farm employment declined by 406,000 to 6,825,000. But nonfarm employment reached a record 60,769,000, up 658,000 from June.

Many of the youngsters who flooded the labor market in June, seeking temporary jobs during their summer vacation, found work in July. Unemployment in the 14-to-24-year age category dropped 364,000 over the month.

The factory work week declined slightly to an average 40.4 hours. This is still more than an hour longer than a year ago and represents the longest July work week since 1955.

Factory worker earnings declined about $1 a week in July. But they average $6.59 more weekly than a year ago.

The July survey was taken in just as the nationwide steel strike got under way. Few of the 500,000 strikers are counted as unemployed because they technically still have jobs. If they actively seek new work, they are counted among the unemployed.

Walter Rules Over House As Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) presided over the House Tuesday as it started debate on new labor legislation.

The House, as it always does when debating and amending major bills at this legislative stage, was sitting as "the Committee of the Whole House" — parliamentary device which makes it less unwieldy. For one thing, not as many members need to be present to constitute a quorum.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) never presides when the House is meeting as a committee of the whole, but turns over the gavel to some other senior House member.

Cuba Rounds Up 3,000

Unrest Still Present In Hinterlands

HAVANA (AP)—Around 3,000 persons were reported Tuesday night as rounded up in the Castro regime's harsh military drive against alleged counter-revolutionary plotters.

Remnants of the anti-Castro rebellion apparently were still being stamped out in the hinterlands and more arrests were reported there. Havana was quiet.

The latest arrests included 15 ex-army men at Nuevitas, a port 350 miles east of Havana on the north shore of Camaguey Province.

Authorities said the plotters admitted they were involved in a general nationwide conspiracy against the revolutionary government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

They were carrying 12 shotguns, 3 revolvers and 3 hand grenades when arrested, officials said. More arrests are expected.

Source of Report

The report of 3,000 arrested was attributed to Maj. Raul Castro, the Prime Minister's younger brother and chief of Cuba's armed forces, by a U.S. Marine who had been detained by the Cuban government for 48 hours.

Acting Sgt. Stanley F. Wesson of Worcester, Mass., a guard at the U.S. Embassy here, said Raul gave him this figure along with apologies for his detention.

There was speculation the first major conspiracy against the Castro government had not been entirely cleaned up.

This was touched off by criticism in a government-oriented newspaper, Revolucion, of another newspaper, La Calle, for giving some details of the plot Monday.

Revolucion said some details given by La Calle were true and some false, but the exposition of the conspiracy at this time would give help to counter-revolutionaries.

Speculation

Another factor bearing on this speculation was that telephone communications to Las Villas Province, in mid-Cuba, were still blacked out.

Until the figure of 3,000 was given by Raul Castro, the total number of those arrested had been placed at 1,500. Unofficial sources expressed the belief that most of them would be freed after police sorted them out.

Many, however, must do a lot of talking.

One is ex-Sen. Arturo Hernandez Tellaheche, named by the newspaper La Calle as the man chosen by the conspirators to replace President Osvaldo Dorticos if their plot succeeded. He is a follower of Carlos Prío Socarras, the former Cuban president ousted by Fulgencio Batista in 1952.

Castro was reported by Jay Mallin, Havana correspondent of the Miami Daily News, to have played a dramatic personal role in smashing the plot.

According to this account top leaders of the counter-revolutionary movement, including Hernandez Tellaheche, were in session in a house near Havana when the bearded Prime Minister stalked in.

With the aid of lieutenants who had pretended to go along with the plotters, Castro helped to herd the group out of the house to army headquarters at Camp Libertad.

One of the lieutenants who handled a cloak and dagger role was Maj. William Morgan, an American who served with Castro's guerrillas. Mallin said the Dominican Republic's consul gave Morgan $52,000 for use in the counter-revolution and that weapons were sent by Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, the Dominican dictator.

Nixon Warns Of Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon told Republican senators Tuesday Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is a tough antagonist whose abilities should never be underestimated.

Reporting this, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen the vice president had described Khrushchev in a talk to the GOP Policy Committee as "a tough adversary, an excellent debater with a highly charged mind and consummate vitality."

Communist China Deepen Military Crisis In Asia During Fighting At Laos

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China, eager to sit at any future summit table, may be preparing to deepen the military crisis in the little Southeast Asian kingdom of Laos.

This could be at least one meaning of the sharpened propaganda tone by both Peiping and Communist North Viet Nam against Laos and its big Western protectors, particularly the United States.

The Chinese might hope to promote a limited jungle war in northern Laos, and thus fan world fears of a renewal of the Indochina conflict that ended in 1954. This could make their presence at any summit conference a matter of urgency.

Peiping took a similar step last year, stirring up the Formosa crisis by bombarding the off-shore Nationalist Quemoy Islands. This followed Mao Tse-tung's apparent disapproval of a summit meeting at the United Nations — where Communist China would not have been represented. The meeting was never held.

The Chinese are not likely to become involved directly with their own armed forces in Laos. They probably would continue to rely on troops from North Viet Nam and the Communist-led Pathet Lao in northern Laos.

Premier Pham Van Dong and his vice minister of defense, Ta Quan Bun, issued weekend statements warning they would consider North Viet Nam's security threatened if any foreign power stepped into the conflict. New warnings were sounded Tuesday that the United States was getting more deeply involved in Laos.

A small war in the jungles of Northern Laos, with the North Vietnamese taking part, would help Peiping assuage American policy toward Indochina now that new hands guide the U.S. State Department. It could also tell the Chinese whether the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization really means to keep its pledge of protecting Laos.

The Communists have been ridiculing SEATO as a "paper tiger" for years.

The move to override the veto obviously represents a Johnson strategy to bolster strength for the substitute measure.

After a White House conference, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said there was some hope that the stalemate over highway legislation might be broken.

Steel Strike Talks Continue

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel strike negotiations dragged through another fruitless day Tuesday. The walkout of 500,000 United Steel workers will be a month old Friday.

Joseph P. Finnegan, chief federal mediator, rejoined the peace talks after a day's absence in Washington. But union President David J. McDonald stayed away for the second day in a row.

Real Estate Exemptions To Continue

HARRISBURG (AP)—The House, moving to correct an oversight, Tuesday night backtracked on its action passing a proposed constitutional amendment to impose a graduated income tax of up to 6 percent.

A standing vote saw the House amend the measure to assure continuance of real estate tax exemptions given by voters last year to owners of private forest lands.

A bill-drafting error failed to include the forest land exemptions in the graduated income tax measure passed by the House Monday night. Both provisions are involved in the same section of the State Constitution.

Rep. Stephen McCann, Democratic floor leader, said he would push for a new vote on the graduated income tax Wednesday. It would be the first action in a long procedure required to amend the constitution.

A constitutional amendment requires approval of two separate sessions of the Legislature and finally in a statewide referendum. The Legislature was replete with tax moves during the day. Among them:

Committee Approval
Committee approval was given in the House to raise the 3½ per cent tax on hotel room occupancy to 4 per cent. Usually a companion measure with the sales tax, the bill had been forgotten in the House rush to pass the 4 per cent sales levy last week.

The Senate returned to its Finance Committee the House-passed 4 per cent sales tax to be rewritten to include a long series of amendments. Most of the proposed changes involve what items used in manufacturing should be tax-exempt.

Sen. William J. Lane (D-Washington) threatened a filibuster on the sales tax if Republican amendments turn out to be unsatisfactory to him.

Other legislative developments
State Highway Aid—The House Ways and Means Committee approved legislation to give municipalities an additional 11 million dollars a year in state aid for local road construction. They now receive 30 million a year.

Mine Disaster—A series of mining bills aimed at preventing disasters such as the Jan. 22 Knox Mine flood-tragedy in Luzerne County last January was sent to the floor by the House Mines Committee.

Injury Benefits—Committee clearance was given in the House to increase maximum weekly benefits for workmen's compensation and occupational disease from $37.50 to $42.50.

Skid Row Taprooms—The House voted to give courts broader powers on appeals from State Liquor Control Board decisions in advancing to a final vote a plan to abolish skid row saloons in Pennsylvania.

Principal Factor
Johnson said one of the principal factors in the timing of adjournment will revolve around whether a House-Senate compromise on a labor control measure has to be worked out and how long it takes. The Senate has passed a labor bill, but a bitter fight in the House that got underway Tuesday may produce a radically different type of measure.

As a means of clearing the way for a vote on a trimmed down, substitute housing bill, Johnson said the Senate will vote on overriding President Eisenhower's veto of a more expensive measure as soon as arrangements can be made to have a full complement of members on hand.

The move to override the veto obviously represents a Johnson strategy to bolster strength for the substitute measure.

After a White House conference, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said there was some hope that the stalemate over highway legislation might be broken.

Committee Turns Down
Reuther

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee turned down Tuesday Walter Reuther's demands that it admit the public to its investigations of his United Auto Workers Union.

In the secrecy of its police-guarded hearing room, the committee then started calling witnesses for questioning.

It led off with John D. Dale of Red Bank, N.J., for quizzing about commissions his management consulting firm reportedly paid to at least one UAW official, Dale runs the George Elliott Co., Inc., New York, which conducts time and motion studies for plants seeking more efficiency from their employees.

Stock Market Recovers Slightly More Than Third Of Heavy Losses Suffered Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Tuesday recovered slightly more than a third of the losses sustained in

(See Quotes On Page Two)

Monday's sharp break which was the worst since last November. Trading was less vigorous.

An estimated two billion dollars of Monday's loss of $5,400,000,000 in the quoted value of stocks listed on the

New York Stock Exchange was won back, based on the rise in The Associated Press average.

The overall gain was the best since July 21 but volume declined to 2,980,000 shares from Monday's 4,190,000, thus detracting somewhat from the significance of the recovery.

The winning back of about a third of losses sustained in a sharp correction fitted in with classic Wall Street theory based on the way the market has performed over the years. Brokers regarded it as a technical snap-back and envisioned the probability of further consolidation moves in the future before it would become more clear which way the market will head.

Generally speaking, the stocks which have taken the worst losses made the best gains.

Senate Committee Approves Compromise For Water Projects

Bear Creek Marked For $3,400,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate Conference Committee agreed Tuesday on a compromise bill carrying about $1,200,000,000 for construction and planning of water projects in the year that started last July 1.

Exact totals were not immediately available but the bill as explained by Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) and Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) is about 25 million dollars over President Eisenhower's budget recommendations.

Eisenhower originally recommended $1,176,677,000 for the work. The House voted $1,177,177,000 and the Senate $1,256,836,300.

The conference thus cut back the Senate total by about 55 million dollars.

Earlier Approval
The Senate Appropriations Committee on July 8 had approved these Pennsylvania projects:

Construction — Allentown $680,000, Bear Creek Reservoir $3,400,000, Bethlehem $600,000, Bradford, $2,400,000, Brookville, $500,000, Dam 8 Monongahela River, $725,000, Dyberry Reservoir $300,000, Kettle Creek Reservoir $1,900,000, Prompton Reservoir $1,120,000, Shenango River Reservoir $500,000, Stillwater Reservoir $1,500,000, Allegheny River Reservoir (N. Y. and P.).

Planning:
Curwensville Reservoir $200,000, Maxwell Locks and Dam $95,000, Ridgway $25,000, St. Mary's $38,000, Tyrone $85,000, Washington Chartiers Creek $78,000, Turtle Creek $25,000.
The House — Senate Conference Committee Tuesday retained the $95,000 planning item and added a $500,000 sum for construction. The Senate previously had not provided for any money for construction.

Committee Approves Mine Bills

HARRISBURG (AP) — A series of mining bills aimed at preventing disaster like the Jan. 22 Knox Mine flood in Luzerne County were approved by the House Mines Committee Tuesday.

The package of eight bills was sent to the floor for further action, possibly next week.

The measures are those recommended by the special House-Senate committee which investigated the Port Griffith tragedy. Twelve men were lost when the Susquehanna River burst into the mine during the January floods.

The legislation would:
Require that a safety zone be established at least 200 feet from the bank of a river, stream or other body of water.

Near Water
Prohibit mining near bodies of water unless authorized by the Mines Department.

Require at least 35 feet of rock cover before such mining could be permitted by the department.

Require mine operators to furnish state mine inspectors with complete information about the progress of workings since the last inspection.

Require safety committee at each mine to keep employees informed of potential hazards and to outline and mark escape routes.

Require immediate notification to the department by the mine inspectors when a stop order has been issued.

Make the state responsible for initiating court action to require mine operators to recover the bodies of trapped miners (families of the miners now must initiate this action).

CINCINNATI (AP) — Four male members of the Platters, internationally known rock 'n' roll singing group, were brought into police court Tuesday to answer charges of aiding and abetting prostitution.

They were arrested in a downtown hotel Monday with four 19-year-old girls — three white and one Negro. The girls were charged with prostitution. A jury trial will be held Aug. 28.

SOLDIERS HURT — Two soldiers, providing an escort for a tractor-trailer loaded with explosives, were injured early yesterday when the station wagon in which they were passengers was struck in the rear by the explosives-laden vehicle and thrown into this tractor-trailer, parked in front of the Arlington Diner.

Two Soldiers Suffer Injuries As Truck Hits Station Wagon

TWO SOLDIERS were injured in a three-vehicle accident on Route 611 in front of the Arlington Diner at 1:15 a. m. yesterday.

State Police of the local barracks said a tractor-trailer owned by Ditto Moving and Transfer Co., 69 Colewood St., Seneca Falls, N. P., and driven by Ray A. Ware, 46, Seneca Falls, was being escorted by a station wagon operated by Pvt. Nicholas Coppola, 19, Fountain Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

The tractor-trailer was loaded with explosives. Both vehicles were southbound on Route 611.

Troopers said that the station wagon started to make a left turn into the diner parking lot when it was struck in the rear by the tractor-trailer. The impact threw the station wagon into a parked Rogers Motor Lines tractor-trailer operated by James Kelly, 45, of 425 Prescott Ave., Scranton.

Sgt. Marvin Hendrix, 30, and Pvt. LeRoy W. Butler, 23, both of the Escort Guard Detachment at Seneca Ordnance Depot, Romulus, N. Y., were treated in the dispensary of Monroe County General Hospital and removed in a Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot ambulance to the depot from where they were flown to Mitchell Air Force Base, Long Island, N. Y.

Hendrix had a dislocated shoulder, while Butler complained of an arm injury. X-rays showed no fracture.

The station wagon was demolished. Total damages were estimated at $3,500. A wrecker from the Signal Depot removed the station wagon from the scene. Armed guards surrounded the tractor-trailer after the crash.

The convoy, which included another station wagon trailing the tractor-trailer which was not involved in the accident, was under command of Lt. James Nolan of Fort Dix, N.J. Its destination was not revealed.

Stroud Township volunteer firemen were called to the scene to wash down gasoline which spilled on the highway as a result of the crash.

Both Hendrix and Butler were passengers in the station wagon driven by Coppola. Neither Coppola nor Ware were injured.

Three VFW Members In State Posts

APPOINTMENT of three members of Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to posts in the Department of Pennsylvania, was announced at a meeting of the post last night.

They are George J. Straka, member of the Eastern States Conference; Raymond Davies, member of the athletics committee, and Henry O. Walp, member of the hospital committee.

National Convention
Robert Brinn, post commander, reported that he has received registration cards for the national convention to be held in Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 30 to Sept. 4, and that delegates and members planning to attend may contact him.

The post donated a sum of money to assist in sending Little League ball players to Philadelphia for a major league game on Aug. 23.

Persons interested in bowling during the Winter were asked to contact Fred Feller or register at the post home.

Government Cancels Fuel Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department canceled Tuesday its contract with the Callery Chemical Co. to produce a high energy aircraft fuel at a multimillion-dollar plant at Muskogee, Okla.

The plant was built and equipped at a cost of over 35 million dollars and is administered by the Navy. It was the second such plant established for boron fuel production to be shut down within 24 hours.

The Air Force announced Monday a new plant at Model City, N.Y., would not go into production of high energy fuel. That factory was erected and was to have been operated for the Air Force by the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. of Niagara Falls.

Closing Down
The closing down of the two plants marks the virtual abandonment of what had been top priority government efforts to produce a special fuel, using a compound of boron.

This fuel was to have been used to give added zip to a special engine designed for use in the B70 bomber which the Air Force has under development.

The special engine, designated the J93-5, was officially abandoned by the Air Force Monday. The Air Force said another engine, known as the J93-3, would still be developed by General Electric for use in the bomber, which has a designed speed of at least 2,000 miles per hour.

KRISTIANSTAD, Norway (AP) — The Rockefeller and the Rasmussen family plan four or five get acquainted parties before the Aug. 22 wedding linking American wealth and power with Norwegian simplicity.

Local sources said Tuesday night the informal tea and coffee get-togethers will start after Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, mother of the bridegroom, arrives early next week. The father, New York's governor and potential candidate, is expected around Aug. 20.

Red Weakness Shows

Calm voices in America have been saying for years that this country's free system has nothing to fear from the competition of Communism. The highly agitated performance of the Russians in recent weeks lends support to this view.

The visit of Vice President Nixon to the Soviet Union, and the daily showing of American life at the U. S. exhibition in Moscow seem to have driven the Reds nearly frantic. They began to attack basic features of the U. S. fair even before it opened.

They have taken particular alarm at the showing of a typical American home, and have tried to argue that it is untypical. Again and again they have sought to down-grade our exhibits.

By the same token, they have shown fear that Vice President Nixon would be judged too favorably by ordinary Russians. The Kremlin complained that translation problems put Premier Khrushchev at a comparative disadvantage in their now famed television "debate." Soviet leaders felt it necessary to have Mr. Nixon heckled.

If Communism is so strong a force, what are they worried about?

The truth is that in their hearts the Russians know Communism isn't the worthy competitor of freedom. They are more afraid of our ideas than we need to be of theirs.

Communism is the weak one in this competition, and the Soviet behavior this Summer is striking proof of it.

Unwise Feud

It would seem that among anti-Communists there is always a little feud as to who is more anti-Communist than the others and which one was first in doing so. The current quarrel is over a book by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet on "What We Must Know About Communism." To anti-Communists, the Overstreets are converted Liberals who belatedly discovered the truth.

The current quarrel is over a book by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet on "What We Must Know About Communism." To anti-Communists, the Overstreets are converted Liberals who belatedly discovered the truth.

Precisely what difference the lateness or earliness of the discovery makes is a bit difficult to understand. It seems to me that the return of a Prodigal is a great gain and no one can deny that the contributions of Whitaker Chambers or Arthur Koestler to the fight on Marxism have been as great and as sacrificial as anybody's.

When the Overstreet book appeared, I praised it because it is completely written and will serve to reach a class of Americans who distrust many of those whom they describe as reactionaries.

Some anti-Communists have been so stolidly fanatical that they have been rejected by those whom they must wish to reach, namely, the youth of this country. And if that is not their purpose, what is their purpose?

There is a point to be made about book-reviewing. Assume

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

When Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's daughter was three years old, she contracted a slight illness. Longfellow, concerned about her, swept her up in his arms and took her into the garden for a breath of air.

The child smiled up at him, and Longfellow, hoping to lull her into a restful sleep, tried to think of some jingle to recite for her. Into his head came the lines:

"There was a little girl
Who had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead;

And when she was good
She was very, very good,
But when she was bad she was horrid."

Nobody was more astonished than Longfellow when this verse became more popular than all his serious writings put together!

First term prodigy was asked to name three different kinds of cow. Her prompt reply: "Jersey, Guernsey, and Contented."

News From The Realm Of Stamps

By Raymond Patton
Sept. 14 — Dental health four-cent stamp — first day sale New York City, N.Y.
This health stamp is being issued to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Dental Health Assn. It will be first placed on sale at New York City in conjunction with the national convention of the association.

With a membership of over 87,000 the association stresses oral hygiene, periodic examinations as the high road to dental health.

Sept. 29 — four and eight cent "Champion of Liberty" series honoring Ernst Reuter, late mayor of Western Berlin — first day sale, Washington, D.C.
Ernest Reuter, mayor of Berlin from 1947 to 1953, was a lover of freedom and a tireless worker for humanity, justice and personal dignity. After persecution and imprisonment by the Nazis, he went into exile abroad, but returned to Germany after World War Two to rebuild his city from the rubble of war.

He died in 1953 without seeing the realization of his dream of a united Germany. It was his courage and leadership that inspired the people of Berlin to stand up successfully under the terrible strain of the Soviet siege or blockade. His spirit and example daily inspires those in his country that are carrying on his work.

United States — Sept. 21 — five cent air mail postcard and seven cent air mail envelope.

Canada — Sometime in September date not yet announced a stamp recalling the events of 1759 (notably the battle of the plains of Abraham) which led to the founding of modern Canada. This will probably be the usual five-cent denomination.

Discontinued — The 80 cent air mail of the United States showing the Diamond Head, Hawaii has been discontinued. These stamps were only used on air mail out of the country, and as there was little call for them, as other stamps can be used to make up the postage, they are being dropped.

However they are not being recalled so many post offices may still have a few on hand. If you have not yet got your copy then it's time you did — if your postoffice still has any on hand.

Figures Don't Tell Entire Story

Perry M. Shoemaker, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, a statement last week stating just why the railroad has requested permission to curtail two trains. Both trains stop at East Stroudsburg.

The statement featured the fact that passenger service has declined in this area during a recent period of time. The railroad president went on to state that an average of 12 people were being carried daily to East Stroudsburg by the railroad.

These figures are very interesting, but they are far from complete.

Maybe only 12 people were being carried to East Stroudsburg by the railroad last May. But, I fail to see any figures indicating how many people were being carried away from East Stroudsburg during the same period.

Really Rushing The Deal

Dear Abby: What is your opinion of a man who buries his wife on Monday and asks you for a date the following Saturday?

I accepted — out of sympathy — and he acted like a sailor who was just off the boat. His wife was a good friend of mine and I know she was sick for a long time, but I don't think there was any excuse for the hurry this man was in to make up for lost time.

I told him I didn't think I should go out with him in public again because people might talk. So he's been parking himself here every night telling me how lonesome he is. I think he is rushing things too much. How can I slow him up without discouraging him completely?

WIDOW WOMAN

Dear Widow: A man who shows so little respect for the memory of his departed wife doesn't deserve much consideration. Tell him plainly that you refuse to be alone with him until the customary mourning period has passed. If you're wise, you'll put this man "on ice" for a year. He could use some cooling off.

Dear Abby: Has the world gone insane? This afternoon I saw a young woman nursing her baby on a bus! I was so ashamed for the other people on the bus that I stood in front of her and made a "curtain" with my coat. She sneered at me as though I were out of my head. Are women nursing their babies in public these days, or was this one a little off?

MORTIFIED, SHOCKED AND DISGUSTED (take your pick)

Dear Shocked: Mothers usually nurse their babies in private — or they should. But occasionally a non-conformist will come along and disregard everything and everyone except her baby and his feeding schedule. In which case — those present simply turn their attention elsewhere.

Dear Abby: I am so shook I don't know what to do. I've been going with this guy for about a year and we have been doing things we shouldn't. I am 18 and he is 19. To make a long story short, I thought we had to get married so we told our parents, and we have

I don't see any figures on the economic importance of these trains on the Pocono Mountains. They didn't point out that the Poconos must have a representative train schedule to attract any type of new industry to the area.

Currently bringing new industries to Monroe County is our number one goal. Earlier this Summer the railroad announced that it expected a much better year in 1959 than in 1958. Now we run smack into plans for the abandonment of two trains.

Soviet Science Shakeup

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Russian science is undergoing a far-reaching shakeup that is certain to have tremendous impact on the West.

Following are some of the major features of the epochal program the Soviet Academy of Sciences is launching on explicit Kremlin orders:

Sweeping reorganization of science planning and administration. Sending scientists abroad for study and training.

Building cities devoted entirely to science. Setting up local scientific councils to accelerate the transfer of scientific developments into military and domestic production.

Based on latest information from behind the Iron Curtain, including a Red document titled "Basic Guide Lines of Scientific Research in the USSR," these details highlight a special State Department report now being studied by the House Space Committee.

Admiral Hyman Rickover, "father" of the atomic submarine, further confirmed this Soviet science shakeup following his recent visit to Russia with Vice President Richard Nixon.

In his secret testimony to the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, Admiral Rickover disclosed that entire science cities already are being built in Russia. He also bluntly warned that the Soviet's new system of scientific planning and coordination with production will lead to great improvements.

How It Started — According to the State Department report, Premier Khrushchev personally ordered the science reorganization when production chiefs complained that despite major scientific gains of these achievements were being used to improve production and products.

This science shake-up got underway last March, says the report, under a Kremlin directive giving the "Academy of Sciences" vast authority to reorganize the top-level coordination and planning of Soviet science. Scientific councils are being formed to promote better coordination and utilization of the nation's scientific resources.

"A document entitled 'Basic Guide Lines of Scientific Research in the USSR' is now being used as a comprehensive, though general, planning instrument for the total scientific-technological research effort."

"It is reasonable to assume that vast improvement in the system of scientific planning and coordination of scientific effort with production will result from these changes." The establishment of scientific councils is one of the most important changes, points out the State Department report.

"One Soviet source estimates there may be roughly 100 such councils, and they are to include scientists and production specialists. This may mean that Soviet scientists will have a bigger voice in the Soviet government; especially if a proposal by A. V. Topchiyev, vice president of the Academy, is put into effect. This proposal would make the councils elective."

"The scientific councils are supposed to prepare long-range plans in their given specialty and make sure that the work of individual research institutions in these fields conforms to both Gosplan's national economic plan and the basic scientific policies. In addition, they are to review the progress of research, encourage the exchange of information between individual institutions, and sponsor research projects."

Other reforms and reorganization measures include "a policy of long assignment abroad for Soviet scientists, and the establishment of two organs of the Academy's Presidium; a plenum to deal with large questions of policy, and a bureau for current problems of administration."

A Must For Congress

There is always a danger that in the closing days of a legislative session some measures that are strongly supported and are really vital will fail of passage through sheer inertia. It is impossible for the Administration or Congressional leaders to put the "must" tag on every bit of desirable legislation. Sometimes the press and the public have to insist that something "must" be done.

The immediate case in point is the "Health for Peace" bill that is still hanging fire in the House. This is the measure that would create an international institute of health and research and make possible a coordinated five-year drive against cancer, heart disease and arthritis, similar to the present drive against malaria.

This bill was passed in the Senate last May by the overwhelming vote of 63 to 17. Since then it has been before the House Subcommittee on Health and Safety of the Interstate Commerce Committee. Hearings in that subcommittee were concluded last Thursday. Testimony before the committee came from the highest sources and was strongly favorable to the legislation.

Now the time of examination has ended and the time for action has come. The subcommittee can, if it will, report the measure out immediately. The Interstate Commerce Committee can then approve the bill without further hearings and take it directly to the floor of the House. Since it is bipartisan in its support and nonpartisan in its character there should be no occasion for the making of obstacles.

President Eisenhower will undoubtedly sign the measure, since it actually stemmed from his own proposals in 1958. He should have the opportunity to do so before he starts on his important trips. It will give him one more important weapon in the arsenal of peace.—New York Times.

The Pennsylvania Story

Assembly Comes Of Age

By Macon Denison
Harrisburg — The day after the Legislature finally adjourns (since die), a completely new and unique arm of Pennsylvania's elected representatives begins monitoring and waterdogging the executive branch on Capitol Hill.

The new "arm" of the legislative branch is known more formally as the "Legislative Budget and Finance Committee." More familiarly it is known as the Legislature's "watchdog committee." During the past 1957 session of the Legislature this column urged creation of such a unit. Legislation was introduced during that session authorizing a "watchdog" committee but it failed to gain enactment.

Earlier in the current session this column again suggested creation of such a committee. At one of his press conferences Mr. Lawrence indicated he would favor such legislation provided it did not become a center for "political harassment" of various departments of the executive branch.

The other day Governor

Lawrence signed into law legislation creating the long-needed legislative watchdog committee.

The committee comes into being the day after the Legislature calls it quits. It becomes the first truly interim administrative agency the Legislature has yet created.

Importance of having such a committee most certainly cannot be overstressed. It has long been the procedure with Congress in Washington — and its need is ever present today in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania's taxpayers would do well to look at their fiscal facts of life and perhaps better understand the need for such a watchdog agency.

Pennsylvania with all its various and sundry "fund" budgets — General Fund, Motor License Fund, etc. — is operating on a $3 billion-plus overall budget. This, most certainly, can no longer be considered in the realm of "peanuts."

Who spends the $3 billion-plus Pennsylvania's taxpayers pour into state coffers? The executive branch.

Who checks on the executive branch when the Legislature is out of session? No one — until now.

Under the watchdog committee setup however, there will be constant checking — with the checkdone by the representative agency of the legislative branch which under the State Constitution is responsible in the first place! The committee is powerful.

It should be. It has the authority to make examinations and reports concerning all state funds and appropriations — to make sure they are spent as directed by the Legislature.

Importantly — the committee is given the power to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of any papers of a fiscal nature.

When the Legislature is in session the committee reports directly to that agency. When not in session the committee reports to the Governor and the State Auditor General (elected) when it appears that any appropriation is being expended for any purpose other than that intended by the Legislature.

Who makes up the committee? Every one of the 12 members is a member of the Legislature — the president pro tempore of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Representatives, plus five members of the Senate and five members of the House!

Seemingly, Pennsylvania's Legislature has at last come of age.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Ideas On Art Center

Dear Mr. Hill:

All Artists in this area are delighted with John R. Wilson's specific invitation to Carla Holmgren to solicit paintings from Pocono Art Club members for temporary exhibition in the YMCA banquet hall! We are not only grateful for this fine exhibition space, but most hopeful that the YMCA feels the need of art within its doors!

Both the YMCA and all art interests are philanthropic-community projects and that they should unite in this way, is a big step forward for all concerned. "Togetherness" makes for progress!

Some of us have long since hoped that a satisfactory arrangement could be made with the YMCA management, to utilize the old gymnasium in the rear of the main building for a Community Art Center. It is a very large room with a two-story ceiling — well lighted and with a convenient side-entrance on the ground floor — right in the center of town.

It is easily accessible for everyone and has all of the necessary facilities for a growing art center for our community, where guests could come and go to classes, exhibits, lectures, discussions, etc. etc. with the greatest ease and convenience.

The art center activities would not necessarily need to interfere with the dance-classes, etc., etc., held there at present.

E. H. Wyckoff, in his usual benevolent spirit, has graciously offered the use of the third floor room over the Penney Store, and this consideration is

Pocono Playhouse

'Girls In 509' Warmly Praised In Opening Night Performance

By Keith M. Edinger
MOUNTAINHOME — A capacity crowd cheered a charming cast in a delightfully humorous play called "The Girls In 509" Monday night at Pocono Playhouse.

The two-act comedy was written by Howard Teichmann and starred Fay Bainter and Ann B. Davis.

"The Girls" is a gay little package about an aunt and a niece who locked themselves in a hotel room after Herbert Hoover's defeat in 1932 and never set foot outside the room, received any callers or mail and never touched a newspaper for 26 years.

Aunt Hettie Vandewick (Fay Bainter) and Minny Vandewick (Ann B. Davis), stalwarts of the Grand Old Party, could not face up to the facts when "that man" (Franklin D. Roosevelt) was elected president in 1932.

Being immensely wealthy at one time, the Vandewicks are now reduced to hocking everything they have. No bills have been paid for eight months and the "Girls" are about to be evicted from their seclusion because the Women's Democratic Assn. is taking over the building.

This attracts the attention of the leading New York Newspapers and the "Girls" find themselves involved in scads of publicity.

Old Jim (Skegde Miller) is the bellboy, desk clerk, and elevator operator and the only person the "Girls" have had any contact with in 26 years. Old Jim who claims to be an actor makes a deal with Prof. Pusey (Gaylord Mason), an assistant professor of Journalism as a Baptist school for men, to get him inside the room for a feature story for the New York Times.

This proves disastrous for Pusey wins the confidence of the "Girls" and after he has explained that the Grand Old Party is again in the White House he is welcomed with open arms.

Sensing a wonderful deluge of favorable publicity, the National Chairman of the Republican Party finds his way into 509 (also caught in the Zebra Trap—Minny forgot to disconnect). It is soon discovered by Aunt Hettie that one party is as bad as the other and they are so much alike that the only way you can tell them apart is by name only.

When Aunt Hettie finds out that the GOP hasn't lived up to its 1932 platform promises she denounces the Republican Party completely. This brings the Chairman of the Democratic Party to the fore not particularly for their support but for money the Girls discovered they had when Minny pawned the walls with 30,000 shares of General Motors Stock (split eight times).

Interweaved throughout this bedlam are a shyster lawyer, Aubrey McKitt-ridge, (Ronald Durling), old friend and old robber of the Vandewick family—and a New York City social worker, Miss Freud (Paula Houston) who hates people and tells the "Girls" they will have to go to a sanitarium and exclaims the "Cooperation will get you nowhere."

However, the city psychiatrist gives the "Girls" a clean bill of health and emphasizes that the "Girls" being cooped up for 26 years has made them perfectly normal, it's the people on the outside who are bats.

A neat little slip at politics, written and directed in the "The Girls In 509", is cleverly written and directed in the production at the playhouse. The clever inflection that both political parties are exactly alike is carried off nicely by having Lawrence Fletcher play both the Republican and Democratic chairmen.

Fay Bainter carried the heaviest load in the play—and carried it nicely. Again the old adage that experience and know-how bring to front a great performance is proven by Miss Bainter.

Her characterization of an early 20th century aristocrat is strong and humorous to say the least.

No quarter can be taken from Ann B. Davis either, although her part is not as plush as might Miss Davis is excellent in her part as Minny, a young girl who had never been any closer to a man than the window washer and there was a pane between them. The Thomas Alva Edison Award went to "Around The World" as the "Best Children's Picture of the Year."

Parents Magazine gave it its Family Medal Award and the leading magazines and critics have given it the laurels as the "Best Picture of the Year." The three-hour spectacular show is not only an exciting adventure story which children and adults can appreciate, but a comedy of both action and satire.

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers Association, the United Church Women, the Protestant Motion Picture Committee, the National Council of Women, the General Federation of Women's Clubs and other affiliated national organizations awarded "Around The World" a very unusual and unique "Special Award of Merit."

Bushkill Firemen Hear Reports

BUSHKILL—Sixteen members attended the monthly meeting of the Bushkill Volunteer Fire Co. held recently at the firehouse.

Richard DePue presided over the business meeting.

Lawrence Dickson, first assistant fire chief, reported on the two fires the company was called on during the past month.

Partial reports were given on the proceeds from the carnival with a profit realized. Final reports will be given at following meetings.

It was reported that the radio setups for the fire company are expected this month.

Services For Mrs. Guillot

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Anna E. Guillot, 79, of Bushkill, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the William R. Thomas Funeral Home.

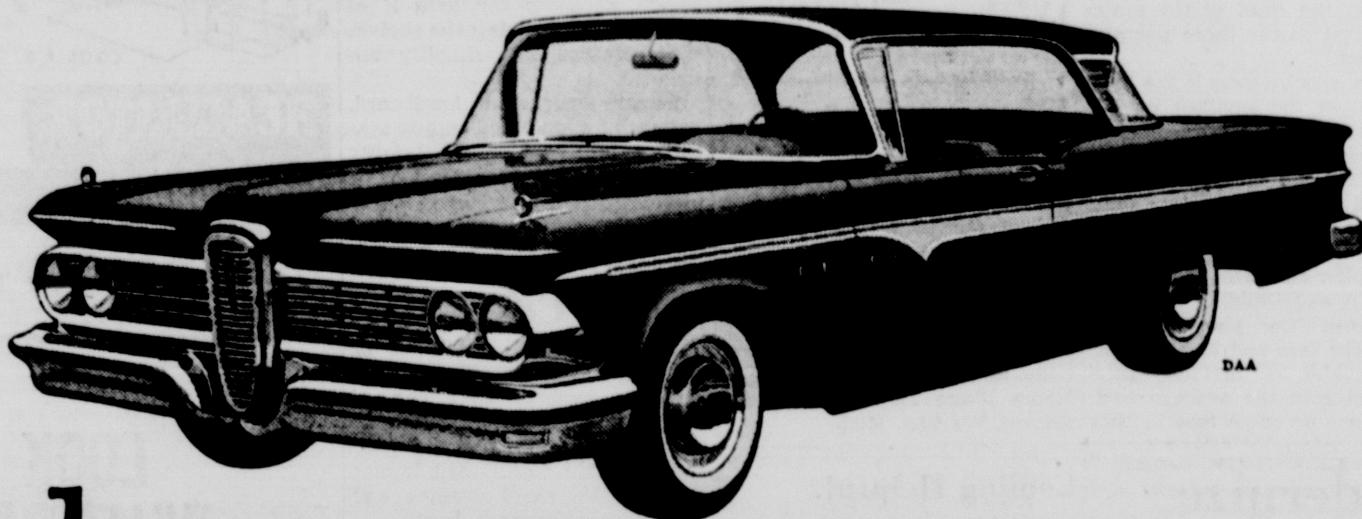

Rev. Peter Durkee officiated, and burial was in the Dutch Reformed Cemetery, Bushkill. Pallbearers were Ralph Turn Jr., Louis Lee, Philip Angle and Kenmie Garis.

Propaganda Broadcast

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The radio of the Dominican Republic in one of its propaganda broadcasts against Cuba asserted that Prime Minister Fidel Castro had been assassinated. This sent many Haitians to the Cuban Embassy to inquire as to Castro's health. They were told he is fine.

Pattern Aids In Building Coffee Table

WE RECENTLY received a letter from a young lady in Ohio who wrote "my fiancée and I built a coffee table for less than nine dollars by following your pattern. Enclosed with the letter was a photograph of a really handsome marbled top table."

The letter went on to explain they used materials the pattern specified and then covered the plywood top with marbled material. They were so delighted with the results they decided to go ahead and furnish their entire three room apartment with build it yourself furniture.

Economical Answer

Building furniture and other built-ins not only provide an economical answer but also many hours of complete relaxation. Each pattern contains a complete list of materials that specifies stock size lumber and hardware.

Step-by-step directions and full size templates take all the mystery out of building these projects. To further insure success, the pattern shows exact location for drilling holes and exactly where one part is fastened to another.

Send 50 cents in coin or money order for Coffee Table, Pattern Number 309 to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N.Y.

Send additional 35 cents for 64 page catalog illustrating over 300 other build it yourself projects. Please add 25 cents for First Class Mail.

Parade of Homes

Convenience Coupled With Home Charm

HERE'S AN outstanding two-story home that embodies all the charm and graciousness of traditional architecture along with years of day-by-day comfort and conveniences to the entire family.

A touch of old English styling is evident in the exterior. Field stone is complemented by horizontal siding on the upper level.

White-painted dormers and double-hung windows together with a four foot overhang forming the roof of the sweeping front porch offset any appearance of severity and impart a feeling of restrained elegance.

Entry Hallway

The front entrance leads to a entry hallway. Facing the door is the second floor stairway. Beyond this is guest closet.

The generous proportions of the three first level rooms is immediately apparent. The living room extends completely from front to back. The wall expanse is broken by a quaint stone fireplace flanked by two windows. These combined with the front windows and rear French door impart ample daylighting and ventilation to this room.

The other downstairs half is dominated by a huge dining room and spacious kitchen. Each of these two rooms are reminiscent of early American architecture when a home maker demanded and obtained loads of elbow room.

To preserve the dining area for formal dining the designer has provided a nook in the kitchen for lunches and light dinners.

Downstairs Lavatory

A downstairs lavatory is also available. The main bath is located at the head of the stairs convenient to the three upstairs bedrooms.

Again, spaciousness is the keynote. Even the smallest of the three bedrooms carries master size dimension.

Window and closet area is plentiful and there's long stretches of unbroken wall space for easy furniture arrangement.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan contains 802 square feet and 21,571 cubic feet. Builder or material supplier can give the average cost per square or cubic foot in this area.

Modernize Fireplace In Home

AN OLD fireplace can be given a "face lifting" over a weekend by a home handyman who likes to keep his home modern and attractive.

Ornate mantels that were in tune with interior decorating standards of the earlier day when the fireplace was installed may not fit the present-day setting. Some mantels would look better trimmed down or removed.

The front of the fireplace or the wall above may show indelible signs of wear or soil. Often the only satisfactory solution is to resurface the area.

Marble-pattern panels of Marlite, a decorative hardboard, are used in many fireplace modernizing projects to lend a distinctive note befitting such an important element of the room. There are six different marble patterns to choose from in this material, which also is finished in woodgrains and plain colors.

Marlite can be applied with wallboard adhesive right over old walls and fireplace fronts, including brick surfaces, with removal of loose material or excessive soil the only advance preparation needed. Matching moldings are available to protect corners.

A baked plastic finish guards the beauty of the paneling, makes cleaning easy and prolongs wear.

Dining Area Efficient In Kitchen

SINCE A DINING nook saves time in serving meals and snacks, most homemakers prefer some sort of dining arrangement in the kitchen.

The installation of a dining nook presents an opportunity to "dress up" the kitchen, besides making it more useful. Especially suitable for this spot, both because of its rich-looking appearance and its service ability, is woodgrain Marlite, a plastic-surfaced hardboard paneling.

Solid Material

Applied over any solid material, this paneling eliminates the need for any finishing and assures lasting beauty with its surface of baked plastic. The plastic surface defies soil, grease, moisture, heat, wear and other abuse. It is easily wiped clean with a damp or sudsy cloth.

Marlite can be used in various ways to decorate a breakfast nook. It serves well for the top and sides of the table, all exposed surfaces of seats, and the wall at the inside end of the nook. The paneling can even be bent for seats of curved design.

A serving ledge between the range and the dining nook may enable Mother to get food to hungry mouths without even budging from where she stands while cooking. Such a ledge is another logical spot for the plastic-surfaced hardboard.

On the side of the dining nook away from the range, a floor-to-ceiling tier of shelves might fit into some plans. These shelves can provide storage for the dining nook, for the adjacent area, or for both if of open design. Topping the shelves with Marlite will simplify upkeep.

Plastic-surfaced hardboard, primarily a wall and ceiling material, is available at lumber yards in a wide selection of plain colors and woodgrains.

Wood Windows Lower Cost

IKE JACOBS, president of Fox & Jacobs, leading Texas builders, reports that one of the reasons his firm switched to windows of ponderosa pine for their air-conditioned homes is that the wood frames and sash do not transmit heat.

This results in less of a load for the air-conditioning system.

Cooling Helpful

LARGE printing firms are finding that economies in time and quality can be secured through air-conditioning which keeps paper from shrinking or expanding with changes in humidity. This also applies to lithographic plants and wherever paper is processed by printing of any type.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Yesterday was the first time I've had an opportunity to play the revised golf course at Shawnee and a perfect day it was for it too with the rims of the encircling hills holding up the inverted bowl of the sky—all Dresden blue and white.

A potter could make a fortune if he could invent a way to capture the color and pattern—particularly if he could capture the motion, too. The course, itself, is surprising and I found myself heading for holes that are no longer there.

However, the most serious hazard is a ball-eating tree on No. 15. It looks like an exceptionally full-headed spruce sitting innocently in the open fairway but it draws balls like a magnet and then swallows them. They go in and never come out again.

At any rate that's my story, and helps me explain that 15 I had on No. 15. The other extra ten strokes? All shook up from the experience, let's say.

Fortunately, I have witnesses. And fortunately for the Shawnee area my unfortunate partner, Mary Sykes, is not going right back to Caracas. As a matter of fact, the Sykes have bought the Kranendonk place in Shawnee as sort of home base to commute to and from Venezuela and should be quite an addition to the community.

While we're on the Shawnee community, we might mention that one date the Shawnee Women Golfers are not likely to forget is Friday, which is the birthday of their president, Joyce Pedersen. Not if Joyce can help it, they aren't.

After the fendish presents she has foisted off on her friends during the years, her own collection will probably be just about right to stock a carnival booth. She already has two lamps with sea shells, mermaids and greetings from Florida on them so you'll have to think of something else.

A pine-needled cushion from the Poconos, perhaps? You have my permission to scalp that baby balm on 15.

Back To Kansas City

Mrs. E. H. Koenigsdorf and her two young sons, who have been visiting her mother, Mrs. Clara Sinclair, in Stroudsburg, last yesterday for New York City where they will spend a few days before returning to their home in Kansas City, Mo.

She Built A New Career On Unwanted Bequest

By Anne Heywood

One of the biggest disappointments—I'm told by people who have suffered it—is the one that comes when you had anticipated a large inheritance but find, when the will is read, that you were cut off with nothing or very little. Although this is not likely to happen to many people, occasionally one of my readers writes me her tale of woe along these lines.

That's why I was delighted to hear, the other day, of a woman who turned that exact kind of disappointment to a profitable use. Since I promised not to use her name, I'll call her Mrs. X.

Rich Grandmother

Mrs. X was an orphan with a very rich grandmother. When the grandmother died, instead of leaving the money to her grandchildren, as all had anticipated, she left it to some charitable institution. Having made it clear that her grandchildren were all comfortably settled, with none in real need, she felt free to endow the institution in which she believed so firmly.

Well, Mrs. X was first shocked, then furious.

"To add insult to injury," she said, "I received two old chairs—part of the personal effects. At first I felt like tossing them out, I was so mad, but then I thought better of it."

Studied Chairs

"Eventually of course I cooled down some. The lawyers went to work to see if what she'd done was legal. And meantime I studied up on the chairs. It seems they were good English ones, made about 1811.

"I got interested and traced it down to determine what kind of upholstery they had originally and discovered a modern fabric that was a good reproduction.

"In the process, I learned so much about English furniture that I became a kind of specialist. I began uncovering interesting pieces here and there, and next thing you know, I was

Full-Fledged Operator

"Now I'm a full-fledged operator myself! I specialize in early nineteenth century and I've expanded to china and all kinds of pieces. I still operate out of my house, but I think I'll be taking a shop before too long."

"So you see the inheritance wasn't as much of a dud as it seemed at the time!"

The antique business doesn't always start in so romantic a way. But behind many successful ventures lies a personal story.

One Specialty

Usually the successful ones specialize, either in some period or in some special product, such as glass or silver or china or tables. If you have a specialty, you can build a real reputation—a reason why people should seek you out. After that, you can expand it if you like.

But if you're wise, you'll continue to have one specialty.

(For further pointers, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, in care of this newspaper, and I'll send you my pamphlet "How to Make Money from Antiques.")

Is fashion a vacillating thing? Maybe yes . . . maybe no. It may seem so to the average woman, trying to keep up with current styles on a limited budget. But, according to the H. W. Gossard Company, there is a permanence to fashion. Classic fashions span the centuries . . . and these include the shirt waist dress, sweaters and skirts, polo coats, white gloves, pearl necklaces, and . . . a comparatively recent newcomer, the car coat. The shirtwaist dress has been around since 1670, and has been worn at various times as a hunting dress, a street costume, a tennis ensemble, and more recently, as a party dress over starched petticoats.

It is interesting to note how the various styles came into being. Sometimes they were the result of jealousy. Queen Victoria noticed, 'tis said, that her husband, Prince Albert, was much intrigued with a Scottish peasant girl who wore a red flannel petticoat. Immediately she ordered a similar petticoat for herself, and inaugurated the dominant fashion of her reign. It is said too that the sack dress of a few years back was the result of jealousy . . . begun by girls who just couldn't compete with the curves of a Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield, so decided to pour them into a tube, like toothpaste.

Hair styles are frequently the result of current events or coincidence. When the French guillotine was working overtime during the revolution, the Titus Hairdo came into being. For this the hair was cut very close at the back of the head, and loose ringlets were worn at the front. Another famous hairdo came into being when the very fashionable Duchess of Fontanges lost her hat in a gust of wind, and tied up her curls with her ribbon garter.

But perhaps the most incredible story of all concerns the Isabella Color. It began when Isabella, wife of an Austrian archduke, refused to change her linen until her armies had taken the town of Ostend. The siege lasted more than three years—and for a century thereafter, fashionable men and women wore the yellow-gray tone that her garments had turned.

What amazes me is that, at the end of three years, anyone could get close enough to Isabella to see the color!

Scranton Fire Damage Set At $300,000

SCRANTON (AP) — Fire swept through the K&K Auto Parts Store Monday night causing damage estimated by its owner, Edward Klein, at $300,000.

Three firemen were injured and patrons were ordered out of the Wishing Well Tavern across a court from the store and from the Palace Hotel adjacent to the tavern.

Virtually all of Scranton's fire force answered the four alarms. They confined the fire to the one building.

No Idea

Supt. of Fires William Morgan said he had no idea how the fire started. He and police are investigating, he added.

Smoke, which poured from the cellar so thickly it was impossible to get close, filled business establishments and residences in the area east of the two-story brick structure. There was a light rain and a low ceiling when the fire broke out about 6 p.m.

Asst. Fire Chief Martin Lahay was cut by flying glass and Louis Fasack and Henry Poflunsky were burned about their faces.

Klein said the loss included $200,000 to his inventory and $100,000 to the building, owned by the J. & F. Realty Co. Both are insured, he said.

11 Receive Treatment At Dispensary

MICHAEL Torzillo, 120 Hemlock Road, Stroudsburg, suffered a laceration of the hand at the top of the index finger yesterday. At Monroe County General Hospital Dispensary his hand was soaked for 10 minutes and stitches applied to the cut.

Treated for dog bites on the back of his right leg was Donald Leap, Sciota. He told the nurses the dog was not particularly known to bite individuals but because of his baseball uniform the dog maybe thought he was some sort of new specimen. He received medicine for one puncture wound.

Bruce Ungerer, 4521 Shady Drive, Wilmington, Del., cut his upper lip after bumping heads with another boy at camp. The dispensary closed the cut with three stitches and advised him to return in four days.

Wade Snyder, son of Donald Snyder, Stroudsburg RD 5, was given a booster shot of tetanus toxoids after he stepped on a nail and punctured his left foot.

Raymond Noonan, 19, of 318 Brookside St., East Stroudsburg, was bitten in the right foot by a snapping turtle at a local pond. He was instructed to keep his foot clean and not to swim and to stay off the foot as much as possible.

Frederick Rice, 24, of Chester, Pa., fell and twisted his right ankle while playing volleyball. Although the ankle was very swollen, X-rays revealed no bone injuries. A Gibeon boot was then applied.

After tripping while shopping, Jean Snyder, 35, of 214 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, reported to the dispensary with a painful right shoulder. She was given a sling to immobilize the arm.

Frederick Shook, age eight, of Egypt, Pa., tripped over a stone and landed on his head while running in a race at camp. As a result of this fall he suffered an injury to his left fourth finger. X-rays showed a non-displaced fracture.

Eugene Smith, Henryville, RD 1, fell on a rocky road near his home. Two stitches were needed to close the laceration in his right knee.

Marvin Hendrix, 30, Escort Guard Detachment, Seneca Ordnance Depot, Romulus, N. Y., was involved in an automobile accident. X-rays revealed a dislocation of the shoulder. After treatment his arm was encased in a swathe.

LeRoy W. Butler, 23, same address, said he also had pain in his arm. X-rays, however, showed no fracture of the bones involved in the shoulder joint. His arm was put in a sling, and he was discharged.

Four Deeds On File

FOUR deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Floyd Butz, register and recorder, in the Monroe County Courthouse: Ethel Janda, Ross Township, to Collins L. and Mary Margaret Brong, same address, lot in Ross Township; Pocono Summit Lakes, Inc., to Lawrence and Sara Eckstein, Philadelphia, five lots in Coolbaugh Township.

Mary Jane Faust, Macungie, to Russell F. and Donald W. Faust, same address, three lots in Ross Township; Helen M. lot in East Stroudsburg. Lord Fenical and Melvin Fenical, East Stroudsburg, to Nathan Abeloff, East Stroudsburg.

Temple Israel Congregation Takes Steps Toward Construction Of New Synagogue

MEMBERS of Temple Israel congregation have taken two steps preliminary to the construction of a new synagogue in the N. Fifth St. section of Stroud Township.

Purchase of a tract of land was authorized at a joint meeting of the Brotherhood and Sisterhood, and President Seymour Katz was directed to proceed with the negotiations.

He also received approval to engage an architect to plan the new temple.

A meeting was held Monday night at the Monatt building at which Lester Abeloff, chairman of the building fund, introduced the architect, Louis V. Rusconiello, to the building committee. The latter is a partner in the firm of Rusconiello & Rusconiello, Scranton.

Abeloff said the firm is equipped to bring to the Stroudsburgs a well planned temple. They have planned a number of church buildings for the Catholic Diocese of Scranton. These include the Marion Convent at Marywood College and St. Vladimir School and auditorium in Scranton.

Locally, the company within the last year completed the Giant Market on Route 611 north of Stroudsburg.

Sol Rothstein, vice president of the temple and a member of the site committee, reported that a tract of land that his committee recommended is to be purchased as the site.

Lehigh Valley Railroad Files For Increase In Passenger Fares Up To 60 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Lehigh Valley Railroad, denied permission to abandon all of its passenger train service, Tuesday asking for increases in interstate fares ranging up to 60 percent on the trains it is required to continue.

The railroad's petition, filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, said it is filing similar proposed increases on intrastate travel with the state commissions of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

However, the company said that it is proposing a 100 percent increase in the fares on its Hazleton-Lehigh Valley branch line, which is an intrastate operation regulated by the Pennsylvania commission.

Lehigh Valley gave notice last January it proposed to drop all of its 100-year-old passenger service because it was losing about four million dollars a year on it.

The ICC temporarily blocked the proposal as a result of protests by Lehigh Valley patrons and railway labor organizations.

However, the federal commission subsequently authorized discontinuance of about 60 percent of the passenger service, effective May 12 but ordered the railroad to continue for another year two daily passenger trains between New York City and Buffalo-Suspension Bridge, N.Y., and two other daily passenger trains between New York City and Lehigh Valley.

The proposal to drop the Hazleton-Lehigh Valley branch is still pending before Pennsylvania authorities.

The company's fare increase proposal, covering one-way, round trip and commutation fares involves:

A 60 percent increase between points up to 100 miles apart.

A 50 percent increase between points over 100 miles apart and up to 200 miles apart.

A 40 percent increase between points over 200 miles and up to 300 miles apart.

A 30 percent increase between points separated by more than 300 miles.

The proposed increase would be applied on both first class travel and coach fares.

Stroudsburg Area Serves As Example

SMOOTH progress on many flood control projects in Western Pennsylvania is the result of the lessons learned when Hurricane Diane struck the Pocono Mountains in August, 1955. Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, said this week.

Western counties will profit from the experience of the Stroudsburg area and flood control projects will be ready next winter in the event floods similar to last January's threaten again, he said.

Projects will begin this month or next, when streams are at their lowest flow.

Goddard said about $242,000 of the $500,000 appropriated by the General Assembly for emergency flood work has been allocated for projects involving from $1,950 in Polkton to $30,800 at Meadville.

One of the biggest tasks in setting up Western Pennsylvania's defenses against floods was accomplished with the creation of the Franklin Emergency Flood Control Center. It was patterned after an office set up at Stroudsburg in the 1955 disaster.

Daily newspapers play a sparkling role in the steady growth of this billion dollar business. National soft drink companies find the daily newspaper's qualities uniquely helpful in solving their many marketing problems. And the daily newspaper's flexibility helps them adjust their advertising to regional and seasonal sales differences.

Local, regional and franchise bottlers, and retailers of soft drinks depend on the daily newspaper to reach the greatest number of consumers in their market. Last year local advertisers, including retailers of soft drinks, spent $2½ billion in newspapers—six times more than in radio; nine times more than in TV. Every day people buy 58,000,000 copies.

If you want to quench your thirst for sales, use the Total Selling daily newspaper. It sells products nationally and locally—all the way to the consumer.

Granules Make Shingles Tough

TOUGH asphalt shingles get their rugged ability to shrug off the wearing effects of weather from a thick layer of rock granules embedded in the surface of the waterproof asphalt.

The granules provide a rich, textured appearance without harsh, ugly glare. They also carry the pigments that make possible the many colors available in asphalt shingles.
